1. The VEB Kranbau Eberswalde has designed a new portable tower for radio transmission for use by the K.V.P. It is prefabricated in four steel girder sections and can be either 15 meters tall, or by the omission of the top section, only 10 meters tall. (See sketch attached).
2. The four sections consist of a base, two middle sections, and a platform complete with crane on to which the transmitting apparatus is hoisted. The whole tower can be transported in one truck. The only work required to be done on the site is the construction of a concrete base and four concrete anchors for the guy wires.
